Improved Resume & Suggestions

Mehak Khan · Digital Performance Marketing Manager application · 29 October 2026

What's in this document

1. Pages 2–3, the improved resume. It uses the same facts as your original, rewritten for this role. Orange [ADD: …] marks a gap only you can fill. Fill it only if it's true; otherwise delete it.
2. Panel review. Seven reviewers gave their verdicts, and their findings are merged into one list of 13 mistakes, worst first.

Verdict in one line

The automated screen rejects it before and after the rebuild, and the hiring manager would give it a 30-minute screen. Your ROAS of 20, the 74% Cost Per Order cut and the AED 400K+ monthly budget keep it alive. What sinks it is that display, programmatic, affiliate and ad-tech work are missing.

Top suggestions, in order

1. Write 2–3 bullets for Fremme. It's your only performance-titled role and it's empty. Give channels, monthly spend, bid strategies and ROAS/CPA.
2. Add display, programmatic (which DSP) and affiliate, but only if you've run them. They are 3 of the 4 channels the posting requires.
3. Show ad-tech depth: Meta Conversions API, Google Enhanced Conversions, offline conversion imports, server-side tagging, API integrations, first-party audiences, and any multi-touch attribution work with a data team.
4. Give the ROAS of 20 context: monthly spend, channels, attribution model and window. Without that, reviewers read it as branded search.
5. Pin down your numbers: Cost Per Order from what to what; one conversion figure instead of "30–40%"; start and end months for every role.
6. Mention privacy and consent if you've handled it (Consent Mode, GDPR, UAE PDPL). The posting asks for it.
7. Keep the new framing. The headline uses a title you actually held, the summary leads with performance, ROAS and CPA come first, and "senior authority / board-level" is gone, so you read as a partner to the Media Planning Manager.
8. Fix the format in your final file. Use one column and plain bullets (the original has hidden zero-width characters and two-column blocks), and remove your nationality.
9. Degree. The posting asks for marketing or business, and yours is psychology. You can't change it, so let the 10 years of experience and the certifications carry it.

Honest read: if you haven't run programmatic or affiliate campaigns or done CAPI- or API-level work, this role is a stretch, and the brand-led Washmen version is a stronger fit.

The seven verdicts

#	Reviewer	Verdict	What decided it
1	Automated screen	REJECT	Programmatic, affiliate, display, API integrations, multi-touch attribution, first-party data and privacy are all missing. The title doesn't match the role. The text has hidden characters and two-column blocks. The degree isn't in marketing or business.
2	Hiring manager (Head of Digital)	INTERVIEW (a 30-minute screen, a close call)	ROAS 20, Cost Per Order −74%, AED 400K+/month, GA4 and GTM kept it in the pile. The generalist headline and the missing ad tech nearly sank it.
3	Reader: day-one hiring manager	MAYBE, leaning PASS	Her only performance-titled role, Fremme, has no bullets. Programmatic and affiliate are missing.
4	Reader: rival applicant	PASS	A rival with programmatic and ad-tech depth beats this. It reads as a generalist head of marketing.
5	Reader: CEO	MAYBE	A ROAS of 20 with no spend, channel or model reads as last-click branded search. Numbers are reused and "30–40%" is a range.
6	Reader: recruiter (top third only)	MAYBE	The summary line is soft branding. None of the job's terms are in the top third. The best-fitting result is ranked fifth.
7	Reader: teammate (Media Planning & Strategy Manager)	PASS	"Senior marketing authority" means she has always owned everything, so she may not share a funnel. The data team behind "rigorous attribution" isn't named.

The closest to rejecting were the rival and the teammate (both PASS) and the screen (REJECT). It held with the hiring manager because of the ROAS 20, the 74% cut in Cost Per Order and the budget scale.

Mistakes, worst first

1. Three of the four required channels are missing. "Paid Media (Google/Meta/TikTok)" covers search and social only. Display, programmatic (a DSP) and affiliate appear nowhere. Flagged by: all seven.
2. No ad-tech or technical depth. API integrations, multi-touch attribution, first-party data, advanced matching (CAPI, Enhanced Conversions) and data privacy are absent. "Unified CRM, marketing automation, and ERP systems" is not ad-tech work. Flagged by: screen, hiring manager, day-one manager, rival, teammate.
3. The most relevant role is empty. "Performance Marketing Manager — Fremme, UK (Remote) | 2020 - 2022" has no bullets. Flagged by: screen, hiring manager, day-one manager, rival, CEO.
4. The headline points to a generalist. "Marketing Manager | Growth Strategy & Marketing Operations", plus hotels, interiors and brand identity, reads as a head of marketing rather than a lower-funnel specialist. Flagged by: screen, hiring manager, rival, recruiter.
5. The headline number has no context. "Achieved a sustained ROAS of 20 … through rigorous attribution modelling…" gives no spend, channel, model or window. "30-40%" is a range, and there are no baselines. Flagged by: CEO, hiring manager, teammate.
6. Seniority reads as "owns everything". "Serve as the senior marketing authority for the group… board-level performance reporting" and "sole senior marketing lead". This role shares the funnel with a Media Planning peer. Flagged by: teammate.
7. The best-fitting result is buried. Cost Per Order −74% is fifth of six achievements, below hotel reservations. Flagged by: recruiter.
8. The summary is a soft fragment. "The kind who gets into the business first…". Flagged by: screen, hiring manager, recruiter.
9. Achievements are repeated. The 78% and 74% figures appear in both Key Achievements and Signature. Flagged by: screen, CEO.

10. Dates are unclear and overlap. Dates are year-only; "2022 - 2022" overlaps "2022 - 2024"; Vahitra overlaps Fremme; Signature has no location. Flagged by: screen, hiring manager.
11. Parsing problems. U+200B characters in the bullets, and a two-column Education block and three-column Competencies grid. Flagged by: screen.
12. The degree doesn't match the requirement. "Bachelor of Arts Applied Psychology", and the MBA is coursework only. This can't be fixed; lead with experience instead. Flagged by: screen.
13. Personal data. "| Pakistani". Flagged by: screen.

What the rebuild fixed and what it couldn't

- Fixed: a headline using a title she held (Performance Marketing Manager), a performance-first summary, achievements reordered with ROAS and Cost Per Order on top, "CPA" wording, no duplicates, Faham and Signature rewritten around spend, KPIs, tracking and optimisation, "senior authority" removed, hotel detail cut down, a single-column layout, nationality removed, tools grouped by ads/measurement/CRM.
- Needs your facts (marked [ADD]): Fremme bullets; display/programmatic/affiliate; CAPI/Enhanced Conversions/API work; first-party data and attribution with a data team; privacy; spend and baselines behind ROAS and Cost Per Order; months.

Automated screen: before and after

- Before: REJECT. The core channels and ad-tech terms are missing, the title doesn't match, there are parsing problems, and dates overlap.
- After (blanks still empty): REJECT. Readability, title, summary, duplicates and personal data now pass, and ROAS, CPA, attribution, KPIs, benchmarks and performance reports are matched. It still rejects because display, programmatic, affiliate, API integrations, multi-touch attribution, first-party data and privacy appear only in [ADD] markers, the Fremme role is empty, dates have no months, and the degree doesn't match.
- Honest read: this posting is a specialist ad-tech role. If you haven't actually run programmatic or affiliate campaigns, or done API and CAPI-level work, no wording will pass it. If you have, filling those blanks is what moves it to a PASS.

This is a second opinion produced by language models. It does not guarantee an interview or a job, and it is not career or legal advice.

Questions to fill the [ADD] gaps

1. Fremme: what does it sell, which channels and monthly spend did you run hands-on, and what ROAS/CPA did you get?
2. ROAS of 20: monthly spend, channels, attribution model and window. Was it branded search?
3. Cost Per Order: from what to what, and over what period?
4. Have you run display, programmatic (which DSP?) or affiliate campaigns? At what spend?
5. Have you set up Meta Conversions API, Google Enhanced Conversions, offline conversion imports or server-side tagging?
6. Have you worked with API integrations, first-party data (CRM audiences, customer match) or multi-touch attribution with a data team?
7. Any experience with data privacy or consent (GDPR, UAE PDPL, Consent Mode)?
8. The exact lead-to-sale conversion lift at Faham (a single number).
9. Start and end months for Faham, Signature and Habtoor; Signature's city; GCWT's full name.

Notes on the rebuild

The headline now uses a title you actually held (Performance Marketing Manager at Fremme). Removed "Pakistani", the summary fragment, the duplicate achievements and the "senior authority / board-level" wording. Use a single-column layout with plain bullets; the original bullets contain a hidden zero-width character. The posting asks for a marketing or business degree; yours is in psychology and can't be changed, so lead with the 10 years of experience and the certifications.
